The '50s style is all about glamour, flawlessness and perfection. Like the fashion in the '50s, the make up is also all about enhancing what you have; enhancing the female form. In this case, the focus is usually on the eyes and lips. The skin is flawless and has an overall porcelain look. The essentials on having flawless looking skin is what you use to prep before you apply your make-up. These days, we're fortunate to have an abundance of products to choose from that would suit the different skin types and tones. With the make-up, the eyes are usually lined with black liquid eye-liner with a wing-tipped shape. Eye brows are shaped and dark, again accentuating the eyes. Lips are bold and usually red, with the Cupid's bow exaggerated.

The products I've used to re-create the look are:

- That-Gal Brightening Face Primer by Benefit Cosmetics
- POREfessional pore minimiser by Benefit Cosmetics
- Enhance by Natural Compatibles Wet and Dry Foundation in Medium
- Enhance by Natural Compatibles Perfect-touch Concealer in C2
- Brows-A-Go-Go by Benefit Cosmetics
- Enhance by Natural Compatibles Shadow Liner in EL1 (Doesn't smudge up the crease of your eyelids & lasts throughout the day)
- Enhance by Natural Compatibles Concept Lipstick in LP12 ( A long lasting and moisturising lipstick)
- Mary Kay Mineral Cheek colour in Cherry Blossom
